

Q: Why did The Hartford select McGee for this role?

A: McGee was selected for the role because he has a proven track record of successfully managing large, complex financial services organizations. Previously he was President of the Consumer and Small Business Bank for Bank of America Corporation. In that role, he successfully led the nation's largest retail bank, serving more than 50 million households with over 6,100 domestic banking centers, nearly 100,000 employees and the nation's largest online and mobile bank.

Q: What more can you tell us about McGee?

A: McGee is active in civic affairs and education. He is a member of the National Urban League Board of Trustees and the Financial Services Roundtable Board of Directors. Additionally, he currently serves on the board of the Andres H. Bechtler Arts Foundation. McGee has acted as chairman of both the University of San Diego Board of Trustees and the United Way of Greater Los Angeles, and he served two terms as a director of the Los Angeles branch of the Federal Reserve Bank of San Francisco.

A native of County Donegal, Ireland, McGee grew up in Southern California. He is a graduate of the University of San Diego, with a MBA from Pepperdine University and a JD from Loyola Law School.

Q: What does McGee expect to accomplish in his first 45 days?

A: McGee plans to spend his first 45-60 days on the job immersing himself in the business. He intends to spend time with our people, business partners, customers, investors, and regulators to ensure that he has the perspectives of all of our constituencies.
